THE MOOSE GOT AWAY

(Courier Photo)

Home is the hunter — and, strangely enough, he's home in one piece, although his rifle is less than intact. The hunter, who asked his name not be used, explained his situation to Courier outdoors columnist Jim Treadgold (above): During a lull in moose-hunting in Wells Grey Park, the rifle was left leaning against a truck, melting snow trickled into the barrel and later froze solid; the hunter fired; the moose walked away, grinning; the hunter checked himself for wounds, found none, and poured himself a drink. A plugged barrel does not allow exploding gases to escape and the steel will invariably split.

Deputy's Double Check Finds Watery Tragedy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A motorist's chance remark about a broken guard rail led to Saturday's tragic discovery of a car that carried a woman and eight children to a watery grave.

Double checking by Delaware County Sheriff's Cpl. Al Williams apparently brought about the investigation that turned a missing persons report into a nightmare for Charles Rutherford.

Williams, who had received Rutherford's missing persons report on his wife, Mary, four children and four nieces early Wednesday, was having his cruiser's radio fixed later that day when a motorist told him of a broken guard rail along side Hoover Reservoir.

He sent a "couple of men" to the scene, but found the rail had been repaired. However, they noticed black paint on the rail, skid marks on a steep grade leading to the ice-over water and what looked like an oil slick.

Since the scene was in Franklin County, not his own, Williams assumed his authorities had investigated.

SUSPICION LED TO CHECK
Two days later, a nagging suspicion about the guard rail and the fact that Mrs. Rutherford and the children had not been found led Williams to check on who investigated. He found that no one had.

The bodies of Mrs. Rutherford, 41, her daughter, Delores, 18, and two sets of twin nieces, 20-month-old Karen and Sharon Rutherford, and 10-month-old Lisa and Teresa Rutherford, were inside the car when divers found it Saturday. The twins were daughters of Mrs. Rutherford's brother-in-law, Leonard, of Charleston, W.Va.

Divers recovered the body of 12-year-old Stephen Rutherford Sunday morning.

Ol' 100 Rolls Out

from pre-historic forest to the youth of tomorrow.

The sights, sounds and smells that will greet visitors once they board the train for a historic walk through Canada were a well-kept secret until Sunday when reporters were given a preview.

The train will be open to viewing today at its first stop in Victoria — Canada tour after State Secretary L.A.M. a r s h officially tootles its whistle, which plays the first four notes of O Canada.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and Premier Bennett were to attend the ceremonies.

The train, made up of six exhibit coaches and nine cars to house staff and other facilities, was dedicated by Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa Jan. 1 after more than three years of planning and building.

It will return to Ottawa for centennial ceremonies July 1. A total of 63 cities in nine provinces will see the train. Newfoundland is the exception because track width differs.

Vice Squad Takes Film

HAMILTON (CP) — McMaster University authorities are investigating the reason behind the seizure by morality squad officers of a student film sequence depicting a bedroom scene.

The footage, which shows a partially-draped woman in bed with two men, featured a non-student stand-in actress after the student leading lady refused to take part.

Toronto police seized the four-minute film segment Thursday after it had been sent to prosecutors in Toronto for special effects.

They released it after advising that the finished film—and future McMaster productions—must be passed by the Ontario Board of Censors.

Chaos In China At Turning Point

SIPLESS SHIFTS IN SHIPYARD BRINGS FIRM CONTRACT TARGET

BIRKENHEAD, England (AP) — The managers of Cammell Lairds Shipyard saluted the workers today for making the supreme sacrifice to complete a £250,000 ($750,000) job ahead of time.

The men gave up their traditional tea break. Norman Vave, head of the shipyard, said the 270 workmen agreed after he explained: "We got this job at a fixed price in the face of fierce competition."

The men found it took eight minutes to walk to the canteen for a tea break, and eight minutes to walk back. They agreed to "have our tea where we work instead."

A 100-day target was set in the contract for overhauling the tanker Athelcrest, but the work was completed in 86.

Proper Balance Now Says Sharp

TORONTO (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said today he believes Canada has struck the proper balance in economic policy to avoid either further inflation or a recession.

"I think we have just about got the underlying rate of growth in the economy back on to a sustainable path—in itself a high rate," he told the Canadian Club.

Text of his speech was given to sportsmen in advance of delivery.

Mr. Sharp and his predecessors have traditionally appeared as the luncheon club's first speaker of the new year, reviewing the country's economic performance and future.

HOPES FOR BALANCE
"I think — and I fervently hope—that we in Canada have in fact arrived at a better balance of policies in time to avert, on this occasion, that damaging combination of continuing increases in prices and an excessive slackening of demand," he said.

He made the comment after reviewing the main events of 1966—his March budget at a time when the country was booming, his September moves to dampen the excessive growth pressures, the government's steps to encourage more housing construction, and his mini-budget last month designed to raise more funds for pensions but keep the economy on an even keel.

"We have had striking increases in real incomes and material well-being over the past five years," he said.

"We must now ensure that the economy continues on this path, which is a fairly narrow one, neither lapsing into the waste of unemployment caused by an inadequate growth rate, nor on the other hand running off the rails because we are trying to do too much too quickly."

He welcomed recent indications of some easing in the tight money situation, with lower interest rates abroad allowing some lowering of rates in Canada while maintaining the attractiveness of the Canadian money market to foreign investors.

Uprising Called 'Very Big' In Peking, Shanghai, Nanking

TOKYO (CP)—Chinese radio stations today reported sabotage attempts in Peking and Shanghai and quoted the official Peking People's Daily as saying Chairman Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution had reached a "turning point."

Radio Peking, monitored in Hong Kong, quoted Peking newspaper reports of a strike in Shanghai, the country's biggest and most important industrial city.

A broadcast from Fochow, in southeast China, said anti-Mao Communist party officials sent workers to Peking to sabotage production and wreck communications.

Fochow radio said the anti-Mao officials aimed to create counter-revolutionary terror in the capital and had incited Red Guard units to strike.

The radio reports from inside China were supplemented by newspaper correspondents' dispatches which drew a picture of widening chaos.

Reports of killing, torture and uprisings involving more than 1,000,000 persons in the last few days suggest China may be close to civil war.

The pro-Mao group was led by Committee Chairman Chen Po-ta, Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, and Kang Sheng.

The posters accused Gen. Liu of destroying the purge in the armed forces and of issuing false orders that continued "white terror" in military schools after Mao had ordered the suppression of students ended.

Japanese correspondents said anti-Mao followers of Tao Chu, vice-premier and party propaganda chief, were converging on Nanking.

Wall bulletins posted in Peking by Red Guards supporting Mao indicated that the discord had split Mao's cultural revolution committee, organized to direct the purge. They accused Tao Chu and Gen. Liu Chih-chien, vice-chairman of the committee and deputy director of the army's general political department, of forming a dissident group including Wang Jue-chung, another committee vice-chairman and first secretary of the Communist south central bureau, and Chang Ping-hua.

Tao Chu rose to power only four months ago as an apparent follower of Mao.

The posters accused Gen. Liu of destroying the purge in the armed forces and of issuing false orders that continued "white terror" in military schools after Mao had ordered the suppression of students ended.

Strong Support Among Workers

The mounting turmoil was reported to have followed efforts by Mao and Defence Minister Lin Biao to extend the purge aimed at groups led by President Liu Shao-chi and Teng Hsiao-ping, Communist general secretary, into industries, the 21,000,000-member All China Federation of Trade Unions and various party committees. President Liu has strong support in the labor federation and the party apparatus.

In the northern port of Shanghai, China's largest city with more than 8,000,000 persons, strikes by thousands of anti-Red Guard workers known as the Red Workers Corps were reported to have paralysed communications and production.

The Peking People's Daily appealed to loyal workers to take emergency action against "reactionary elements" that "plotted to cut off water, electricity and paralyze transportation."

It said "revolutionary rebel workers" were attempting to maintain factory production under difficult conditions.

A Peking broadcast heard in London referred to "a very grave, bloody incident" in Shanghai, but did not indicate further the extent of the violence.

A correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi described the Nanking uprising as "very big" and said it resulted from Mao's order last Dec. 27 to purge mining and other industries. Nanking University Red Guards loyal to Tao Chu appear to have joined anti-Mao workers, the newspaper said.

Japanese reports said 54 persons were killed, 900 injured and 6,000 arrested in clashes in the city last week.

AN ANALYSIS:

Moscow Sees Some Trouble After Power Struggle Ends

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Moscow, with a great deal riding on the outcome, evidently expects China's power struggle to end soon in a result blasting any chance for a Soviet-Chinese reconciliation in the foreseeable future.

Communist-bloc observers do not rule out thereafter the possibility of grave Russian-Chinese incidents, perhaps taking the form of deliberate Chinese provocations on Soviet borders.

An indication of official Moscow thinking was provided in a long article carried by Red Star, the Soviet defence ministry newspaper.

Soviet soldiers, it said—as if preparing them for the outcome in Peking—"cannot fail to be shocked" at the dominant Chinese group's attitude toward the Soviet Union, which "raises questions in the minds of Soviet servicemen."

For a long time, Moscow has carefully watched the struggle. Should the side headed by men like President Liu Shao-chi and the party general secretary, Teng Hsiao-ping, come out on top, there would be a chance of healing some of the scars inflicted by the long Peking-Moscow feud.

RUSSIA WATCHES
If the side headed by Defence Minister Lin Biao wins the chance for Moscow-Peking cooperation would virtually evaporate. Too many bridges have been burned, too much has been said and done.

It appears now that Communist observers see Lin Biao as the winner. They say it is not a question of who will win but when the issue will be finally decided. Some observers of the Peking scene say the decision is likely to come before the winter is out.

The way the European and Soviet Communist observers see the China struggle, Lin Biao, claiming the support of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and the right to interpret his "thinking," in reality heads a minority, but an extremely powerful one which soon, in effect, is likely to become the majority.

AIMS AT WORKERS
This faction is striking heavily at its opposition's stronghold—the ranks of the factory workers. President Liu and Secretary Teng have been strong in the All-China Federation of Trade Unions which they created.

But the Lin faction apparently has won control of the People's Liberation Army after a struggle which began as long ago as 1958. They have purged from its command structure the professional army officers who, in the interests of a modern armed force, wanted to retain good relations with the Soviet Union, its primary source of the wherewithal of war. The professionals have been replaced by or made subordinate to political officers. This is the way the Red Star article sees it.

The Chinese party, Red Star said, has become "the pupil of the army," and the army, in turn, is in control of the teenage Red Guards who are an important instrument of power for Lin. Red Star says the army guides the Red Guards, drills them, support their actions, provides them with uniforms and in fact makes them a reserve of the P.L.A.

Members Fear Long Debate On Bulky Transport Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Debate on the government's bulky transportation bill may spell an end to hopes for an early conclusion of the present session of Parliament.

Government spokesmen have suggested an ideal Centennial Year arrangement would be a quick end to the present session followed by a short 1967 Parliament which would leave MPs free to devote time to Canada's 100th birthday celebrations.

The transportation bill which will replace the present Board of Transport Commissioners and the Air Transport Board with a single transportation commission has already been the subject of lengthy debate both in the House and in committee and Opposition members have signified their intentions of continuing the battle when Parliament resumes today.

Major targets of the Prairie and Maritime MPs are the bill's provisions for abandonment of uneconomic rail lines and the new freedom the railways will be given to adjust freight rates.

Told Kennedy Not To Come Says Texas' Governor Connally

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Governor John B. Connally has indicated he did not want John F. Kennedy to take the trip to Dallas in November, 1963, when the president was assassinated and the governor wounded.

"I reminded him he had not made a political appearance in Texas since the 1960 campaign and that if he spoke at four fund-raising dinners, he would be accused of coming to Texas just to take back a lot of money," Connally says in a copyright interview in the Dallas Times Herald.

The visit to Texas was of the president's own making, Connally says.

Connally made the statement in reaction to Look magazine's first instalment of a four-part, 60,000-word serialization of William Manchester's controversial account of the assassination The Death of a President.

Manchester reports in the book that five prominent Democrats strongly urged Kennedy to keep Dallas off his Texas itinerary in November, 1963, because of what they felt was a highly charged atmosphere of antagonism toward him in the city.

Manchester does not mention Connally, who was Kennedy's first navy secretary before he resigned to run for governor, as one of those who advised the president to skip Dallas on that fateful tour.

Soldiers Killed In Arab Attack

CAIRO (Reuters)—The Egyptian Middle East news agency said today 36 British officers and men were killed and 14 others severely injured in an attack last week by Arab Nationalists on a British base at Dhahla in Aden.

The agency said the attack was carried out by forces of the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen, an organization which claims part of the Aden protectorate as Yemen territory.

The footage, which shows a partially-draped woman in bed with two men, featured a non-student stand-in actress after the student leading lady refused to take part.

Toronto police seized the four-minute film segment Thursday after it had been sent to prosecutors in Toronto for special effects.

They released it after advising that the finished film—and future McMaster productions—must be passed by the Ontario Board of Censors.

CITES LBJ FEARS

German Editor Won't Cut Book

HAMBURG (Reuters)—Senator Robert F. Kennedy made a last-minute attempt to stop the West German magazine Stern from publishing a serialized version of William Manchester's controversial book Death of a President, the magazine announced today.

Look magazine, from which Stern bought the German-language copyright, agreed to the request of the president's widow, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, to delete certain passages from a version it will start publishing Tuesday.

But Stern's chief editor, Henri Nannen, refused to make any changes in the original serialized version.

The magazine said a telegram sent to Nannen this week-end by Kennedy, New York Democrat, appeared in the names of Mrs. Kennedy and himself for the same passages to be deleted from Stern as were being omitted from Look version.

Stern said Kennedy claimed there was no material of historical significance in the deleted passages and they related only to personal matters which would cause distress to Mrs. Kennedy and the Kennedy family.

The spokesman said one of the passages deleted from the Look magazine version cited that official hosts in Fort Worth, Tex., obliged the presidential couple to spend the night before the assassination in separate rooms.

Nannen said this incident was undoubtedly an act of political chicanery against the president and Senator Kennedy had been told it could not be deemed a part of their private life, the spokesman said.

"If I thought that Manchester's description were to cause distress to Mrs. Kennedy or her children Stern would not print this report," Nannen said in his cabled reply to Kennedy.

"I also ask you to understand that German readers, who for 12 years had to endure a censored press, are very sensitive to interference in a writer's freedom."

The Stern chief editor said another contested part of Manchester's account described how President Johnson did not dare to drive to the airport in an official car after the Dallas shooting.

Instead, he and his wife Lady Bird drove to the airport in an unmarked car so as not to be recognized.

AT PARLEY

Agriculture Minister Richter is in Kelowna today and Tuesday to attend the 1967 Centennial Year Outlook Conference for British Columbia agriculture.

Mr. Richter, of Kelowna, MLA for Okanagan-Similkameen, is taking part in the day-long Capri Motor Hotel sessions, along with a wide cross section of valley fruit growers and farm officials.

The Kelowna conference is one of three held this year, the others are at Prince George and Vancouver.

Less than a mile from the attack on the tanker in the Long Tau river, two South Vietnamese minesweepers also came under fire from Viet Cong recoilless rifles.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said one minesweeper took heavy damage but had only light casualties while the other minesweeper escaped serious damage.

Only small-scale ground action was reported in the war and the U.S. air offensive against North Vietnam was hampered by bad flying weather.

But from the Mekong Delta 40 miles south of Saigon came word of the slaying of 10 South Vietnamese children and the wounding of 16 more when they were used as human shields by Viet Cong advancing against a unit of South Vietnamese Rangers.

A U.S. spokesman said the Communists herded the children and some adult civilians in front of them. Despite warnings from the Rangers, they kept moving forward and fired on the government troops.

The spokesman said the Rangers had no choice but to return the fire. In addition to the 26 children killed or wounded, nine adults were wounded.

Harlem Congressman Expects Trouble Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—A reckoning that could limit—or even end—the Congressional career of Representative Adam Clayton Powell begins today.

The Harlem Democrat today faces an attempt to break his greatest grip on power, the chairmanship of the House of Representatives Education and Labor Committee.

Tuesday when the 90th Congress convenes, an attempt will be made to deny a seat to the Negro minister who has represented New York City's 18th district since 1945.

Some of Powell's troubles have resulted from failure to pay a $164,000 libel judgment. In New York, Powell faces a jail term on a contempt of court charge.

A House committee recently investigated Powell's activities as committee chairman and charged he used official travel credit cards deceptively.

BACK IN WASHINGTON

Powell returned to Washington Sunday from a vacation in the Caribbean and showed no concern for his fate. He told reporters to "keep the faith, baby."

Powell said he'd be ready to speak in his own defence when the first move against him is made.

That is to come at the House Democrats caucus. Representative Morris K. Udall (Dem. Ariz.) has promised to move that the committee on committees be instructed to give Powell's chairmanship to Representative Carl D. Perkins (Dem. Ky.).

When Gordon Came Back Trade Minister Didn't Know

TORONTO (CP)—Trade Minister Winters says he was not consulted on Walter Gordon's appointment to the cabinet last week.

In an interview Sunday night on the CBC-TV program Sunday, Mr. Winters said the public announcement was the first he knew of the former finance minister's return to the cabinet.

Asked where he stood on Mr. Gordon's policies for greater Canadian control of the economy, the trade minister said: "I'd like to see Canadians control as much of our industry as we can. But I'm a strong believer in maintaining a good climate for foreign investment in this country."

Mr. Winters said he thought some of Mr. Gordon's policies were misunderstood.

"He gave the impression, or people thought he did, that he didn't want foreign investors. No one knows better than Mr. Gordon how much we need foreign investment."

"What he did say was that he would like to see Canadians own as much of us as we can. And he did take steps to penalize foreign ownership. This gave the impression."

Asked why Mr. Gordon was taken back into the cabinet, Mr. Winters said: "There must have been a meeting of minds between Mr. Gordon and the prime minister. I'm anxious to find out what they are."

Stock Markets Kicked Off With Gains For New Year

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's stock market kicked off the first week of the new year with most major sectors scoring impressive gains.

The advance was paced by a surging New York market. The best gains in Toronto went to issues also listed in New York.

Brokers attributed the New York rally to rumors that President Johnson doesn't plan to come tax increases in his next budget.

Other factors included a more receptive tone by the Hanoi government towards a possible Vietnam peace solution and an increase in the price of steel by Stelco, Canada's largest producer.

The industrial index at Toronto climbed 2.86 to 150.49. But volume remained light. Only 10,964,000 changed hands at Toronto compared with 9,484,000 last week. At Montreal, 3,296,000 shares were traded against 2,649,000 last week.

Among interlisted issues, CPR climbed 2 1/2 to 57. Massey-Ferguson and Distillers 1 1/2 to 24 1/2 and 35 1/2. Bell Telephone 3/4 to 47 1/2 and Walkers 3/4 to 29 1/2. Stelco moved up 1 1/2 to 21 1/2. Finance Minister Sharp said the government didn't plan to move against the increase.

Prices of other major steel producers strengthened. Alcan rose 2 1/2 to 24 1/2. Dofasco 1 1/2 to 20 1/2.

Iron suffered the sharpest drop among industrials, falling 2 1/2 to 92 1/2.

Western oils jumped 2.85 to 133.28 on index despite profit taking Friday.

Increased activity in northwestern Alberta and anticipation of sales of oil and natural gas leases triggered the interest.

Scurry-Rainbow was up 1 1/2 to 25 1/2. Union 1 1/2 to 24 1/2. Canadian Superior 5/8 to 31 and Great Canadian Oil Sands 3/4 to 10 1/2.

GOLDS DIP

Gold tumbled 4.10 to 151.10 on index.

Dome slid 3 1/2 to 11 1/2. Giant Yellowknife added 55 cents at 8.40.

Among base metals, Pine Point was up 3 to 51 1/2. Denison 2 to 58 1/2. Noranda 1 1/2 to 51 and Cominco 1 to 31 1/2.

Joliet added 8 at 58 cents on 634,000 shares in speculative mines.

Base metals gained 1.86 on index to 87.53.

At Montreal, industrials were up 2.71 to 151.59, utilities 2.88 to 131.01, banks 1.50 to 110.40 and papers .70 to 104.93.

Rosy Years Ahead Area Growers Told

CONFERENCE TOLD

B.C.'s Economy Still Booming

The B.C. economy continued to boom in 1966, as it has in the past six years, and department of industry officials foresee no let up in 1967.

A report on B.C.'s general economic situation and outlook, compiled by the department of industry, was presented today to 136 delegates attending the 1967 agricultural outlook conference.

The outlook conference, being held today and Tuesday at the Capri Motor Hotel, attracted producers, businessmen and government officials from the Okanagan, Kootenay and Kamloops areas.

The high level of economic activity which has characterized the B.C. economy for the past six years continued unabated in 1966, according to the department of industry report.

Strong foreign demand, expanded production capacity and a high level of capital investment stimulated the 1966 economy.

The provincial economy will continue to expand in 1967 but the overall rate of growth could be lower than in 1966, according to the report.

The department of industry bases its optimistic outlook on the continued high level of capital investment forecast, enlarged industrial capacity, rapidly increasing personal income and a high population growth rate.

But the report also considers two negative factors. Because the Canadian economy is dependent on foreign markets and capital, the war in Vietnam could affect the B.C. economy.

The report also predicts that tight money conditions will continue to prevail during 1967.

● Evidence of the 1966 economic boom can be seen by:

- Total personal income up 14 per cent over 1965.
- Unemployment, at an annual rate of 4.5 per cent, was well below the 6.2 per cent average for the preceding 10 years.

- Manufacturing was up 11 per cent.
- Exports climbed 14 per cent; imports rose by seven per cent.
- An estimated 44,000 additional workers joined the labor force—the largest increase ever recorded.

Commodity-producing industries, except sawmills, made satisfactory gains during 1966.

MOST INCREASED

● Pulp production increased by 12 per cent and paper production registered a seven per cent gain. Mineral production jumped 18 per cent. Fish landings increased 25 per cent.

● The resurgence of the fruit industry paced a 16 per cent increase in farm cash receipts.

Problems in 1965 included tight money conditions which acted to reduce housing starts. Lumber sales dropped as a result, during the latter part of the year.

Another problem was the increase in consumer and wholesale prices. The consumer price index jumped 3.7 per cent from 1965—the largest annual increase since 1951.

REACHED RECORD

Capital and repair expenditures—which reached a record $2,400,000,000 in 1966—are expected to continue and the 1967 investment program should approach the 1966 figures.

The department of industry expects capital expenditures in the forestry and mining sectors to be lower in 1967 but this will be offset by continued high level investment in utilities and social facilities, such as schools.

Both pulp production and mineral production should show increases.

The report forecasts a "highly favorable" outlook for the latter part of the 1960s. Prospects are excellent for forestry and mining resource development and for large-scale commercial projects in Vancouver.

By 1970, B.C.'s population should reach 2,075,000 people, an annual increase of 50,000 people.

Long-Term Forecast Report Indicates Expanded Market

The future of agricultural development in the South Okanagan is as lush as a field of clover after a spring rain according to a long-term prediction presented in Kelowna today.

The prediction for the North and South Okanagan and for Kamloops forecasts expanded markets and increased production. But the Kootenay forecast is dimmer.

The prediction reports were presented at the opening sessions of the 1967 agricultural outlook conference, being held at the Capri Motor Hotel today and Tuesday.

The South Okanagan report, for the area from Duck Lake to the border, was presented to the 136 delegates attending the conference by District Horticulturist M. P. D. Trumppour.

EXPANDING MARKET

"If present population trends continue as expected, there will be an expanding market for agricultural commodities the South Okanagan is well suited to producing," Mr. Trumppour said.

In addition, the expanding markets will absorb some commodities, such as soft fruits, which are already in surplus supply.

Increasing tourism will also give the industry a boost. "But urban sprawl is a threat which will soon have to be faced. So far urban sprawl has not made serious roads on agricultural land, but it is only a matter of time before good agricultural land is encroached upon."

Mr. Trumppour suggested two possible areas where land might be obtained, if needed for expansion.

In the Oliver-Osoyoos area, another 2,000 acres of land could be cultivated after water distribution changes are completed there.

Land could also be leased from the Westbank Indian reserve.

serve if a major water system was developed.

Mr. Trumppour said tree fruit acreages are unlikely to increase. But a decline, if there is one, will not be rapid.

Although tree fruit acreages won't likely increase, the production of apples is expected to rise, partly because of improved orchard management techniques and high density planting.

In the North Okanagan, apple acreages will likely decline but production is expected to rise 100 per cent by 1985.

The North Okanagan report, compiled by M. C. Cowell, district horticulturist, Vernon and G. D. Johnson, dairy inspector, Kelowna, was presented by Jim Ryder, Vernon.

INCREASE EXPECTED

The production of tree fruits, small fruits, grapes and vegetables was expected to increase over the 1960-63 average both in 1975 and 1985.

Qualifying milk was expected to increase in both 1975 and 1985 but manufacturing milk and manufacturing cream will continue to decline.

In the Kamloops forecast, presented by Al Pelter, Kamloops, commercial beef cattle were forecast as contributing to 80 per cent of the agricultural income for the years 1975 and 1985.

In addition, Mr. Pelter recognized the development of the purebred industry as a separate business.

A more pessimistic report came from the Kootenay-Boundary area, given by Dr. C. C. Cunningham, veterinary inspector, Nelson.

The major obstacle to realizing the potential production of the area is a "shortage of progressive, capable and forward-thinking producers," Dr. Cunningham said.

He suggested that only an influx of newcomers could rectify the situation.

Valley College Council Examines Future Tonight

Reports on the status of the college staff and organization of public relations and presentation of the defeated Dec. 10 referendum were expected to be considered today by the Okanagan Regional College council.

The council was scheduled to meet at 9 p.m. following an in-camera meeting this afternoon of the publicity committee. A meeting of the college council executive was held last Friday.

College officials, including president Norman Walker, last month asked council to investigate the position of himself and his associates following defeat of the referendum.

He said their positions had been "put in hazard" and asked for clarification of "details and conditions" of the staff's employment.

Meanwhile, the college council resolved in its last meeting to strive toward presentation of a second referendum and was believed to be studying the best methods of making one possible.

Reorganization or expansion of the council and a different formula for sharing of operating costs have been suggested as two possibilities.

MOSTLY SLUSH

Fresh Snow Hits Valley But 97 Route Stays Good

An inch of new snow fell on Highway 97 during the night but at 8 a.m. today the road was mostly bare with some slush, according to a road report from the department of highways in Kelowna.

Winter tires or chains were required on the Kelowna-Beaverdell Road, where there was compact snow. Two to three inches of new snow fell in the Vernon-Lumbly area, with a half-inch on the Monashee Highway. Winter tires or chains are necessary on the Monashee, reported in good winter condition.

Light snow was falling early today on the Rogers Pass. There was a half-inch of new snow, with a temperature of 23 degrees. From the Banff gate to Calgary the road was clear.

Winter tires or chains were necessary on both the Rogers and Allison passes. Slush was reported near Hope. Further east on the Allison Pass, compact snow was reported.

Complex Counsellors' Role Subject For Jan. 19 Seminar

The increasingly complex role of school counsellors will be discussed at an afternoon seminar in Kelowna Jan. 19.

Counsellors from throughout School District 23 (Kelowna) and the Immaculate High School will take part in the seminar, along with school administrators, parents and a lawyer.

Using a theme, the role of the counsellor, the 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. session is set for the new administration building of the Kelowna Secondary School.

School district 23 trustees have welcomed the seminar idea and commended the counsellors for their initiative and progressive thinking.

Along with those closely connected with the schools, the counsellors have also invited representatives of about 20 community agencies to attend the seminar.

The program begins with a panel comprised of L. P. Dedinsky, principal of the secondary school; Don Wood, a boys' counsellor; Mrs. Marge Dellart, a girls' counsellor and parents Mrs. Cedric Stringer and Jack Gercin.

Mr. Dedinsky's topics include:

duties of counsellors as seen by the department of education, the school board and the principal; the role of counsellors in theory and practice; and some problems facing counsellors, such as work load, working conditions, time to engage in counselling, contact with parents and other agencies, training and professional status, voice in administration policy-making and suggestions for improvement.

Topics for Mrs. Dellart and Mr. Wood include the role of counsellors, outlook for the future and several of the subjects covered by Mr. Dedinsky.

Kelowna lawyer Brian Weddell concludes the seminar by discussing such topics as where counsellors stand with the law regarding students' rights, referrals, confidence, testing and reports on students. He will also outline which laws counsellors should be aware of, regarding child care, labor and abuse.

Both the panel and Mr. Weddell's presentation will be followed by a question period.

INCOME TAX TIME

Pain May Stay But It's Colored

The pain may not be eased, but the federal revenue department is attempting to simplify filing of income tax returns.

Roy Steel of the department of national revenue and taxation in Pentecost told The Daily Courier today the actual return filing may not be any easier this year.

"But we feel instructions have been simplified and the form itself is designed in a manner we hope will lessen chances of mistakes."

Also introduced this year by the revenue department were colored envelopes, with a different color for each designated area of Canada.

Mr. Steel said this would speed sorting into districts at the data centre in Ottawa before a computer takes over.

Maritimes will mail their returns in a brown envelope, while green envelopes will come from residents of Quebec. Returns from Ontario will be in orange envelopes and Western Canadians will file in crimson envelopes.

Announcement of the color-coding and unveiling of the new income tax forms was made last week in Ottawa by Revenue Minister Benson, who said only one in 10 Canadians will face making a detailed tax calculation this year.

The table setting out respective federal and provincial rates will give a breakdown up to a taxable income of $8,000, compared with the $5,000 maximum in earlier years.

Mr. Benson told a press conference the cost of designing the new forms and guides was $43,711 and he is sure they will cut errors, increase efficiency and get refunds into the mail faster.

He said changes were necessary also to provide a section for deduction of Canada Pension Plan payments.

WRONG COPY
Mr. Steel said much of the previous problem before people filing their working copy rather than the personalized form which can be computer processed.

The new forms were expected to lessen this possibility because the instructions are contained on the face of the working copy opposite the part pertinent to each instruction.

The face of the new form comes in buff and white. You fill in figures on the white spaces. The spaces giving people difficulty are numbered, and you read what they mean by seeking the corresponding number on the guide.

NOT SO EASY
Things apparently will not be as easy for business and professional people completing T-1 general forms. Their old instructions were squeezed into a single page. Their new ones come in a 20-page booklet.

Farmers and fishermen also get a 20-page guide with their form. Employers must comb their way through six pages.

Mr. Steel said he is not yet urging persons to file their returns early.

"In the past, we received many filed before T-1 forms had been obtained and this confuses the issue," he said.

However, he said instructions to district taxation officers were expected soon and he would elaborate for the public at that time.

'Blaze' Dolls Still Arrive

The Kelowna Fire Brigade has received 13 of the highly flammable Polish dolls, Assistant Fire Chief Jack Roberts said today.

Earlier estimates were that 48 may have been sold in the Kelowna area.

The dolls were turned in to the fire department following warnings after Christmas that the dolls were a fire hazard and should be destroyed.

The Polish-made dolls, in peasant costume and up to 18 inches in length, were sold for less than $1. Warnings of the danger came from nearly every province across Canada.

The fire marshal in Vancouver said the dolls had an English import label on the foot.

Mr. Roberts said experiments carried out at the fire hall showed the dolls' face would burst into flames when brought near an open flame and would smoke when a lighted cigarette was near.

FOR SEVEN CITY MEN

Happier Boys Objective Of Big Brothers

A lost, unsure, perplexed boy began to change a few months ago into a happy, self-assured, relaxed young man.

According to the youth's mother, the transformation was accomplished by the Big Brother program—a program designed to fill the aching need of a fatherless boy for male companionship.

The Big Brother program, started in B.C. in 1957, emerged from anonymity once a year during Big Brother Week, Jan. 8 to 15.

The rest of the year, the Big Brothers go quietly about their work, the work of helping boys. The little brothers may be hostile or passive, some—as in any group of young people—are delinquents, but most are simply anxious and lonely.

All the boys are fatherless. And the role of the Big Brother is to fill the gap left by death, divorce or desertion.

During Big Brother week, the search is widened for more men willing to volunteer help.

In Kelowna now there are seven men acting as Big Brothers. Each spends at least two or three hours a week with his little brother.

As Ben Gant, one of the Big Brothers, explain the program, the Big Brothers don't have to make extra time in already hectic days for their boys. Instead the Big Brothers are encouraged to include their boys in whatever they are planning to do anyway—golfing, hunting, fishing, weeding the garden, taking a walk or washing the car.

ORDINARY ACTIVITIES
The Big Brother program is not an organized sport or therapy program. The idea, instead, is to include a fatherless boy in the ordinary activities of a normal man's life.

Neither is the program designed for delinquent boys, Mr. Gant emphasizes. Some of the boys have been in trouble with the police, but most are emotionally withdrawn and shy and unable to cope with other people.

"A couple of the little brothers in Kelowna are probably the quietest, most peaceful boys in the city. That is the problem—they are too peaceful for boys of their age," Mr. Gant says.

The Big Brother program is not meant to infringe on the role of boys' clubs and organizations. Instead, the Big Brothers have an individual relationship with a boy who is unable to take part in the activities of a happy group of club members.

Big Brothers are matched to boys with the co-operation of health, social welfare agencies, schools and courts. When a boy's problem becomes evident, a Big Brother can take over and often prevent the problem from erupting into violence or permanent maladjustment.

Big Brothers are carefully screened and carefully matched to their little brother. Men willing to participate in the program can obtain application forms from Mr. Gant.

Overcast . . .

Continuing mild but overcast weather was expected this afternoon and Tuesday.

The weatherman forecast a low tonight of 35, climbing to 42 Tuesday.

Investors Should Not Be Financed By Public

It is distressing, of course, that some thousands of investors lost millions of dollars in the collapse of Prudential Finance. It is not surprising that they should raise howls of anguish.

But, on the other hand, they are being somewhat ridiculous when they suggest their losses should be made up out of the public treasury.

Any plan of the sort would be so complete a distortion of economic reality as to ruin all remaining concepts of free enterprise.

If the government for one instant adopts the principle that the public has a collective responsibility to assist those who invest in corporations which go bankrupt it will be setting a precedent which will never end.

A great many Canadians over the years have made investments which have gone sour and have received no compensation from the government. To give assistance to the Prudential Finance investors would be no different from declaring protection for every speculator on the stock market. If the precedent is created a good case should be made for the claim it should be retroactive and all stock market losers during the past century should be recompensed.

Prudential Finance was selling short term paper at a high rate of interest, a rate high enough to indicate a clear degree of risk. For many people it is tragic and shattering that the gamble was lost, but any money lending operation is a gamble; that is what interest rates are all about.

If the government protects that man who invests and loses in a financial corporation, why not the operator of the corner store, the lessee of the service station, or the man who buys shares of some corporation at $10 and finds they are down to $5 when he wants to sell.

This thing just won't work. There are certain plain truths in life and one of them is that employing money as a commodity to make more money carries with it inherent risks. Some people lose; some people win. As long as we are involved in anything that remotely resembles a free economy that rule will never change.

A tightening up of the legislation governing the near and the near-near banks is certainly needed and action should be taken swiftly by both the federal and the provincial governments. But there should be no more talk of directly reimbursing the losers. Those who do not invest wisely should not have to pay for those who do.

Kennedy Ambitions Grow

Orilla Packet and Times

The current frantic skirmishes in United States legal and publishing circles over the publishing of a book concerning the death of President Kennedy, is but the latest manifestation of the growing power of potentially the greatest family hierarchy the United States has ever seen. The Kennedy family seeks to block publication of the book and it is using Jacqueline, widow of the late president, as its appealing and attractive spokesman. But Mrs. Kennedy is only window-dressing; her role since her husband's death has been that of the bereaved and lovely widow, and as such she is the idol of the American matriarchy and a sympathetic figure the world over. Behind this facade, and under cover of the great and growing legend surrounding the dead president, the Kennedy clan pursues its political ambitions, and it is obvious that these ambitions could be damaged by publication of the controversial book.

The Kennedy family "image" is a curious one. Outside the United States, the Kennedy's are simply relatives of a great American president; little is known of the activities or ambitions of the surviving members. But in the United States, where the Kennedy name and mannerism are already a proven and potent political force in state and national politics, the cult of "the youthful image" is being harnessed to an established legend to sweep the late president's brothers to national prominence. The activities of the dead president's widow and children furnish endless material to the popular women's magazines and the Sunday supplements, while the growing unrest over the circumstances surrounding the presidential assassination itself keeps the family name on page one of every newspaper in the land.

The Kennedy hierarchy background is a peculiar one; despite its present patrician airs, it is only a generation removed from the vulgarity of low-brow Boston Irish ward-healing politics. The late John F. Kennedy was unquestionably one of the greatest presidents the United States has ever had, but his very greatness tends to obscure a clear assessment of the other, and less gifted, members of the family. His father founded the vast family fortune by financing Hollywood movies, among other things, and made himself notorious as U.S. ambassador to Britain in the dark days of World War Two by informing Roosevelt that the British were sure losers, and advising him to back the Germans. He made no bones about his intentions to use the family wealth to further the political fortunes of each of his sons, assuring them that "after John, it will be your turn next."

It is apparent today that the drums are beating for the Kennedy assault upon the highest positions of power within the land, and to further this assault, no detail is too small, no hindering force too great, to merit the fullest family attention. The wistful widow, the frolicking child, the austere grave with its eternal flame, even the snowcapped mountain named after the great president; all will play their part in the months ahead to help add new political laurels to the greatest family hierarchy since the Roosevelts.

Take Gum Rubber Eraser And Look At A Skyscraper . .

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — "You take a gum rubber eraser," says architect Bill Kinne. "You press the top and bottom. The sides bulge out. That's creep."

Kinne is worried not about the creep in erasers — but the creep in skyscrapers. He's trying to find out how much skyscrapers creep and why.

It bothers the people who live and work in skyscrapers, too. Plumbing joints start leaking, sliding doors won't slide, ceilings crack, fixtures sag. And the bigger the building, the greater the creep.

What's more, buildings are getting bigger — and creepier — all the time.

Kinne, who also is an engineer and professor at the University of Wisconsin, has been investigating, measuring and listening to the groans of 19-story Van Hise Hall rising off the hilly wooded campus here.

The difference between the eraser and the building is that concrete won't ever bounce back to normal. After completion Van Hise Hall will be several inches shorter than originally intended.

REASON IS CREEP

The reason is creep, or, as Kinne also calls it, dimensional change.

Kinne wants to find out how much creep will occur given certain conditions. Planners can then expect the changes and avoid interminable headaches. To hear the "groans" better, Kinne and his graduate students are using "strain feelers" embedded in steel attached to the concrete. When connected to reading instruments, they tell how much the building's structural concrete frame is straining under its own weight, as well as the weight of classroom furniture and so forth.

To take the data, the scientists are cementing the feelers — ultra-thin electrical wires glued to pieces of felt — to short steel bars and then are welding the bars to the reinforcing steel supports in the concrete. As the concrete creeps so do Kinne and his assistants then work their way up through the feelers, or "strain gauges," building, taking readings by plugging their meters into the gauges, now embedded deep in the concrete.

HARDLY BEGUN

The strain on Van Hise has hardly begun, Kinne says, since many of the walls, floors, desks and other fixtures are still to be installed. His sensors, in sealed down laboratory testing, have registered as much as 25,000 pounds stress. The Van Hise columns, full sized at five feet by two feet, must bear much more weight, more than 5,000,000 pounds, Kinne says.

Out of years of data from Van Hise and a 70-story apartment building being tested while under construction in Chicago, scientists hope to find out how to build around creep — broken-down, cracked ceilings and walls.

Creep won't cause a building to collapse, but over the long run the repair costs and the constant trouble will make it age faster.

The thieves smashed a jewelry store window with their hammer and made off with 410,000 ($230,000).

NEWS REVIEWED

War Continues But Peace Near

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign News Analyst

We shall have peace, the news seems to be saying. Much depends, of course, on how you read the news. Admittedly, in Vietnam the war goes on with both sides offering an end but on mutually unacceptable conditions. Russia appears to be escalating the arms race by embarking on a ruinous program of antimissile construction that may have to be matched by the U.S. Jordan's King Hussein says Moscow is trying to divide and rule in the Middle East and indeed Syria is using Soviet weapons against Israel border guards who employ French weapons to blast Jordanian villages. In Africa military coups keep pace with tribal massacres. Yet, we are moving closer to the certitude of peace.

Peace depends not on abolishing conflicts and rivalries overnight but on replacing murderous forms of conflict with less murderous forms till nations, like members of a civilized society, resolve their differences in court rather than in gun-fights.

Which brings us to the problem of the concealed gun and how to detect it; the problem, in other words, of disarmament with inspection which can only come about if the desirability of its purpose, peace, is truly recognized by both sides — the U.S. and Russia — as being the greatest common priority.

Such recognition has grown in this hydrogen bomb era, giving us the test ban treaty, the treaty prohibiting the use of outer space for other than peaceful purposes and the agreement between Moscow and Washington that nuclear weapons should be denied to those who do not now have them, which means that the U.S. is finally abandoning its traditional concern with containing the Soviet Union by using German strength to that end.

Germany may pass from being a bulwark to being neutral ground. Thus, the German threat to Russia recedes more rationally.

In the more relaxed atmosphere, trust of sorts is easier and disarmament inspection is not so difficult to arrange. Spy satellites are now perfected enough to photograph objects smaller than man, and neither side attempts to shoot down the other's satellites. So the building of an antimissile network cannot be hidden and a Moscow-Washington agreement not to build such networks may not stumble over the problem of inspection.

Money is a factor in this release from tensions. Russians have become affluent which means they have comforts and hope for more. Like us, they want less guns, more butter. Prague Radio told us at the close of 1966 that the Soviet man-in-space program was slowed by lack of funds; yet in the same year the number of private cars produced in the USSR increased substantially.

The U.S. finds its prosperity threatened by the drain of gold to finance a foreign war; yet the U.S. public does not seem disposed to cut its expenditures and pleasure travelling to conserve foreign exchange.

There seems, then, to be a certitude of peace or rather of freedom from world war — Russia wouldn't fight even if U.S. attacked. China and such an attack would not mean world war, only a larger but still localized Asian war. This may not be peace on earth, but it is a promise that the human race will survive long enough to learn how to eliminate even local wars caused by the rebellion of the colored and starving part of our globe.

Loves Boating: Writes Book

TORONTO (CP)—Garth Griffiths is a Vancouver engineer with a lifetime association with pleasure boating.

That led him into Canadian Power Squadrons, the national organization promoting boating safety through education, in which he has been a training officer at local and national levels.

Now he has put that study for CPS into preparation of a comprehensive book on piloting and seamanship of small craft, Boating in Canada (University of Toronto Press).

The 328-page book parallels courses provided each winter at many Canadian centres by CPS. Decision is expected from the June meeting of the CPS governing board on whether Boating in Canada will become a CPS official textbook.

The book is in three sections — first, an over-all survey of the fundamentals of safe boating, then more detailed sections on seamanship and piloting.

Probably because Canadian Power Squadrons puts its main emphasis on motorboating, Mr. Griffiths' book does too. But the rudiments of handling sailing craft are included.

CANADA'S STORY

Hanging Interrupted Diplomatic Talks

By BOB BOWMAN

Diplomacy could be rough in early Canada especially when it concerned making treaties with the Indians. In 1665 the Marquis de Tracy arrived at Quebec with a famous French regiment, the Carignan-Sallieres. It will be represented this year in the military tattoo that will tour Canada, Tracy and the Carignan-Sallieres were supposed to defeat the Iroquois, but Tracy knew they would need special training before tackling a new type of warfare in the wilds.

Governor Courcelle was not willing to wait. Perhaps he wanted the glory of humbling the Iroquois. Acting against advice he prepared a campaign of his own. First he sent out 800 men to build forts along the route to Lake Champlain. Then on January 9, 1666, he left Quebec with 500 poorly trained volunteers. It was the end of the month before they arrived at St. Therese where the Richelieu River flows out of Lake Champlain. Then they set out to march to the Hudson River, crossing frozen lakes, Champlain and George on snowshoes. The men did not have proper clothing and nearly froze to death. The supplies that had been left for them had been raided. Finally Courcelle had to turn back and acknowledge his failure.

However, his action did have an effect on the Mohawks. They realized that the French were preparing to invade their country and sent delegates to Quebec to negotiate a peace treaty. During the discussions one of the Mohawks bragged that he had killed a Frenchman and Tracy promptly had him hanged while the other "diplomats" looked on.

The peace negotiations were not successful and Tracy eventually defeated the Iroquois later in the year.

Seals In Second Place Tie Following 4-3 WHL Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

California Seals downed the Seattle Totems 4-3 Sunday to move into a second-place tie in Western Hockey League standings with the slumping Vancouver Canucks.

The Canucks took a 7-0 pounding at the hands of the Victoria Maple Leafs Saturday night in the B.C. capital. The Seals and the Canucks each have 38 points, well back of the Portland Buckaroos who top the league 53 points.

In other weekend WHL action the Seattle Totems downed the Gulls 4-2 at San Diego while California defeated the Blades 6-4 at Los Angeles in games Saturday.

Los Angeles rebounded to hand the Buckaroos a 4-1 setback in Sunday's only other contest.

The weekend action leaves Seattle a close third with 37 points, Los Angeles fourth with 35, Victoria fifth with 33 and San Diego in the cellar with 22 points.

In Saturday's contest at Victoria, the Maple Leafs, looking like the club that took the WHL playoffs last season, had trouble trouncing the lacklustre Vancouver entry.

The Leafs got two goals from Milan Marcetic and singles were added by Mike Labadie, Mike Laughton, Bruce Carmichael, Bob Barlow and Rolfe Wilcox.

California's home ice victory over Seattle was the Seals' fourth straight victory, their longest win streak of the season. Keith Wright, Jerry Odrowski, Danny Belisle and Wayne Maxner scored for the winners. Guyle Fielder produced two for the Seals and Bill Dineen added a single.

Smokies Win First Game Since Dec. 9

Trail Smoke Eaters bounced back from a month-long nose-dive in weekend Western International Hockey League action to wallop the Kimberley Dynamiters 8-2.

The victory, Saturday night on home ice, was the first Trail win since Dec. 9. The Smokies, with 27 points, moved into a third-place tie with Kimberley in the WHL standings.

In other action Saturday night the league-leading Nelson Maple Leafs downed the Jets 4-2 in Spokane, while at Cranbrook the Royal were defeated 7-4 by the Rossland Warriors. In Sunday's only game, Kimberley, when the Dynamiters lost 6-3 to the Jets at Spokane.

Harry Smith led the Trail attack with three goals. Pimko McIntyre added a pair while singles went to Addie Tambellini, Dave Russell and Gerry Penner.

George Colitti and Dick Vincent scored for Kimberley.

And the Eagles, seven-point underdogs, seemed on the road to an upset until Jerry Logan stole a pass in the dying moments of battle from Jack Connamon to set Baltimore up on the Eagle 35.

Aided by a pass interference call at the six, when Jim Nefles got in the way of Ray Berry, the Colts scored with 34 seconds to go on a one-yard run by Tom Matte.

When the big break came, Philadelphia had led since the second quarter, when Connamon and King Hill led the Eagles to two touchdowns and a 14-10 margin at halftime.

HITTING'S LIGHT
Players of both teams had taken a relaxed approach to the game, and the hitting became less and less vigorous as the game progressed in 77 degree sunshine.

Some 58,088 fans turned out to see the runners-up of the Eastern and Western Conferences. Hill quarterbacked the Eagles to their first touchdown, hitting Ron Gooden a key 12-yard pass at the Colt five and scoring himself on a one-yard sneak.

Then Connamon came in, completed four straight passes, and the Eagles moved 60 yards to score on a two-yard lunge by Israel Lang, a 232-pound fullback judged the game's most valuable player.

The Colts opened the scoring with a 23-yard field goal by Lou Michaels in the first quarter, then tallied on a 14-yard pass from Unitas to Berry.

A fourth field goal by Michaels from 34 yards narrowed the margin to 14-13 in the third period, but it didn't look like Baltimore would catch up until Logan's crucial steal.

Rangers Back In First Place Thanks To Boston's Upset Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins, a last-place team who have trouble helping themselves, provided the surprise of the National Hockey League weekend by giving New York Rangers a boost to sole possession of first place.

The Bruins upset Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 Sunday night while the Rangers were edging Montreal Canadiens 2-1 in New York. The Rangers and Hawks had gone into Sunday's action in a first-place tie and the results gave the New Yorkers a two-point lead.

The win was the 18th for the Rangers, the same number they won in the whole 70-game schedule last season.

In Sunday's other game, the fifth-place Detroit Red Wings defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1.

The Canadiens defeated Detroit 4-2 Saturday while Toronto trounced the Bruins 5-2.

The Rangers now are five points ahead of third-place Toronto and nine up on the fourth-place Canadiens.

JOHNSTON SHINES

The Bruins, who had labored through a stretch of eight winless games, beginning Dec. 21, knocked off the Hawks behind Ed Johnston's brilliant goaltending and goals by Bob Dillabough, Johnny McKenzie and Bob Woytowich.

Johnston stopped 29 shots, including a diving save on Bobby Hull in the first period after Ken Wharram's power-play goal had sent the Hawks ahead 1-0. The Bruins had 20 shots.

Dillabough tied it while the Bruins were short-handed later in the first session and McKenzie drove a rebound past Chicago goalie Dennis DeJordy less than a minute later. Woytowich provided the insurance with an unassisted goal in the third period.

Stan Mikita of Chicago got his 35th assist to bring his point total to 52.

The Rangers trimmed Montreal 2-1 on Bob Nevin's goal with less than five minutes remaining in the game. Orland Kurtenbach scored the other New York goal while Gilles Tremblay scored for Montreal.

WE'RE NO. 1

Chants of "We're No. 1" went up in Madison Square Garden following Nevin's tie-breaking goal at 15:12 of the third period. The crowd of 15,925 also let out an ear-splitting roar when the Boston - Chicago score was posted at the Garden, showing Boston ahead of the Black Hawks.

Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge was at his best in the second period when the Rangers fired 16 shots at him. The Rangers had 25 shots during the game.

Montreal managed the same number at Ed Giacomin who lowered his average to 2.18.

In Sunday's other game, the Red Wings beat Toronto on goals by Andy Bathgate, Parker MacDonald and Paul Henderson. Bob Pulford scored Toronto's goal late in the game.

Greene's Skilled Ski Display Gives Canada Stauden Trophy

OBERSTAUFEN, West Germany (CP) — Canada's Nancy Greene put on a dynamic display of skiing during the weekend to win the Stauden Cup in the first of a series of international competitions in Europe.

Topping an elite field, the 23-year-old student from Rossland, B.C., captured the giant slalom Sunday after winning the special slalom Saturday.

The twin victories by the dark-blond, petite Miss Greene put her at the top of the parade in the current world alpine competition. She received 50 points for her work here. Runner-up is Fernando Bochaty of Switzerland with 35 points and Burgl Farberinger of West Germany is third with 22.

Miss Greene, in the form of her life, was clocked Sunday in one minute, 18.58 seconds in the 1,300-metre giant slalom on Mount Huendel here. The 47 gates for the event had been staked out with a drop of 380 metres.

SNOW WAS FAST

The Ottawa-born girl finished more than a second ahead of Miss Farberinger in the giant slalom in excellent racing conditions. The temperature was well-below freezing and the powder snow was fast.

Ms Bochaty had been second to Miss Greene Saturday in the special slalom in which the winner had combined times of 42.18 and 37.15.

Top skiers from 10 countries are competing in this year's series of women's competitions, the first since last August's world championship in Portillo, Chile.

Marielle Goitschel of France, who won the giant slalom world championship in Portillo, placed fifth Sunday. She had a spill during the special event Saturday, which put her out of the running for the Stauden Cup, which she won the last three years.

Canada Keeps The Puck To Earn Tie With Russia

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's national hockey team came from behind twice Sunday to gain a 3-3 tie with Russia, and a couple of the Canadians think they know why.

Winger Wayne Johnston thinks the Nationals are more potent against the Russians this season because the Canadians aren't giving the puck away as much.

Goalie Ken Broderick noted that his team-mates, who rarely get more than 15 shots on the Russian goal, had 42 Sunday.

And that's why Canadian coach Jackie McLeod thinks his team should have won.

"It's nice to do well against Russia," he said after the game, "but with that many goals we should have scored more."

The national teams played before 15,524 fans in the Montreal Forum.

TRAIL 2-0

The Canadians were down 2-0 after the first period and trailed 3-1 at the end of the second. They finally achieved a tie with right winger Ray Cadieux's goal at 15:31 of the third.

The Russians had taken full advantage of penalties to Canada's Barry MacKenzie and Danny O'Shea in the opening period and Alexander Almetov and Vitale Davidov scored.

The Canadians, who couldn't do anything right in the first period, came to life in the second.

Jean Cusson, Canada's top goal getter in the recent Centennial tournament at Winnipeg which Canada won, scored his team's first goal on a rebound.

Edward Ivanov gave the Russians a 3-1 lead when he ripped a shot from inside the blueline which defenceman Barry MacKenzie accidentally deflected behind Broderick.

Ted Hargreaves brought Canada to within one goal at 2:53 of the third period when he took a rink-wide pass from Roger Bourbonnais and scored from the face-off circle to the left of the Russian goal.

Cadieux scored his power-play goal from the right corner of the crease to salvage the tie.

Broderick said that getting 42 shots on Russian's Victor Zinger must be a first.

"I don't think we've ever had more than 25."

Johnston's post mortem was:

An unaccustomed hero in Montreal was Carl Brewer, former star defenceman for the Toronto Maple Leafs, who used to draw heckling from the Forum crowd when he took to the ice in the National Hockey League.

In the third period of Sunday's game, the Forum rafters echoed to the chant of "We want Brewer, we want Brewer."

The centre of attention in the Canadians' dressing room, Brewer had high praise for his new team-mates.

"These guys amaze me," he said. "After a game I just want to sleep, but these guys ... I don't know how they do it."

"They work or go to school until five o'clock and then they play. Some of them were writing exams. Imagine, writing exams on Friday before the game."

Sunday's tie followed the Canadian team's 5-4 win over the Russians last Friday in the Centennial world hockey tournament in Winnipeg.

Red and White Color Theme For Bates - Scutt Ceremony

White chrysanthemums and red carnations graced the altar, and white and red ribbons marked the pews of St. Michael and All Angels' Church on Dec. 31 at 1 p.m. when Ursula Scutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan G. Scutt, Lakeshore Drive, became the bride of Sub-Lieutenant James Leonard Bates RCN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bates of Campbell River, B.C.

Archdeacon D. S. Catchpole officiated at the pretty double ceremony, and the soloist, Mrs. Hamay, sang "O Perfect Love" accompanied by Mrs. Werker at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white embroidered brocade. Fashioned on Empire lines with long sleeves, the gown featured a removable sleeveless coat of white peau de soie which flowed into a long circular train at the back. A crown of white maribou held in place her eight tiered, shoulder-length veil of illusion net, and she carried a white maribou muf to which was attached a shower bouquet of red roses.

For "something old-something borrowed" the bride wore family heirloom pearl earrings and borrowed a lace handkerchief.

The matron of honor was Miss Joan Bazett of Kelowna and the bridesmaids were the bride's cousin Miss Dianne Fischer of Dawson Creek and Miss Audrey Lingle of Kelowna. The three attendants wore charming, in similar floor length red velvet dresses complemented with white fur jackets and white fur muffs enhanced with red carnations. Their headresses were white fur pillbox hats.

The groom's two small sisters, Karen and Christine Bates from Campbell River, wearing long white dresses of peau de soie with red velvet sashes and carrying baskets of red carnations, were the enchanting little flower girls, and young William P. Scutt, brother of the bride, wearing a navy blue suit bore the wedding rings on a white satin pillow.

Acting as best man was Officer Cadet William F. Murray of Vancouver, who assisted the bride and groom. The brides were Donald Pettman of Kelowna and Robert Gilchrist of New Westminster. The bridegroom and best man were very smart in full naval uniform. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Scutt chose a floor length dinner suit of turquoise embroidered brocade with a matching satin hat and muf and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother, who assisted her in receiving the guests at the reception held at the Capri Motor Hotel, chose a sheath dress of gold sculptured velvet with a matching pillbox hat and a corsage of white carnations. The toast to the bride, proposed by C. E. Royce Bazett was ably answered by the groom and O/C W. F. Murray gave the toast to the bridesmaids.

Centering the bride's table was a beautiful three tiered wedding cake flanked by bouquets of red carnations and tall white tapers in silver scones. Special guests were Mrs. J. Scutt, the grandmother of the bride and Mrs. W. McClellan, great-aunt of the bride. The reception hostess was Mrs. Hazel Shaw of Vancouver.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included another special guest, Mrs. A. Fischer of Dawson Creek, great-aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. F. Thompson of Abbotsford; Mr. and Mrs. R. Wardrop of Vancouver; Miss Shirley Campbell of Vancouver; the groom's two sisters, Miss Judy and Miss Marlene Bates of Campbell River; Mrs. Hazel Straw of Vancouver; David Johnson of Dawson Creek; Miss Maureen Duck of Vancouver; Miss Peggy Currying of Kamloops; and D. K. Manning of Victoria.

To travel on her honeymoon the bride changed to a smart red dress with a matching red hat and red accessories with which she wore a camel hair coat.

The newlyweds will reside at Suite 11N-2440 Portage Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

President Johnson Rejects Portrait

WASHINGTON (AP) — The artist whose commissioned portrait of President Johnson was rejected by the Johnsons says he had to work with a sleeping subject and turn aside Mrs. Johnson's suggestions on how to paint the work.

And now, says artist Peter Hurd, he's lost interest in a second and smaller portrait he was doing of the president.

But even if the Johnsons don't like the first effort, there apparently is a demand for it from a museum and private collectors.

News of the turnaround became public Thursday and was confirmed by Mrs. Johnson's press secretary who said the president "didn't like it and neither did she (Mrs. Johnson)." The portrait was unveiled for the Johnsons last spring.

Hurd, known for his southwestern landscapes and portraits, said from his New Mexico ranch the fact that he turned down changes suggested by the Johnsons could have been responsible for their rejecting the portrait.

Hurd said he was forced to work mostly from photographs because he was permitted only one 30-minute sitting with Johnson — and that then the president "was terribly fatigued from a very busy week in Washington" and fell asleep, said the artist.

The larger portrait is sought by the national portrait gallery of the Smithsonian Institution. The Washington Post says private collectors, including "more than one bidder who has been a known LBJ detractor" — also are seeking the painting as a political and historical collector's item.

Dr. Hilestock said some of the babies he saw were "like victims of a concentration camp." Why do parents behave so cruelly? In the cases investigated by the Birrell brothers, they found disturbed family backgrounds, alcoholism, sexual promiscuity, financial difficulties and mental illness.

Publication of the doctors' reports caused such a stir in Victoria that the state government set up a three-man departmental committee to inquire into all aspects of cruelty to children.

Johnson-Taylor Ceremony Takes Place In Michigan

St. John's Episcopal Church in Charlotte, Michigan, was the scene of a pretty December wedding when Margaret Ann Taylor of Lansing, Mich., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Blair Taylor of Kelowna, became the bride of Gordon A. Johnson of Charlotte, son of Mrs. Albert Johnson and the late Mr. Johnson and the late Mr. Johnson of Jackson, Mich., with Rev. William Malotke officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a three piece double-knit suit in winter white, topped with a white ostrich feather whimsy, and she carried a bouquet of white baby's mums and deep red Jacqueline roses.

For "something old" she wore her paternal grandmother's engagement ring; for "something borrowed" the bridegroom wore a medal—an old naval tradition to give the bride courage—and for "something blue," a garter.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Michael Detzler of East Lansing who was charming in a black and white wool suit and black feather whimsy.

The bride's brother, Michael Taylor of Kelowna, acted as best man, and the usher was Richard Rajkovich of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Porter in Charlotte, where the mother of the bride received wearing a smart coat-dress of jade green silk knit with a matching hat, long white gloves and a gardenia corsage. ### ANN LANDERS

Wife Sets Thermostat To Warm Or Chill Home

Dear Ann Landers: Is it better to have a husband who is never home or no husband at all?

Last night it happened again. Bob telephone at noon and said he'd be home for dinner at 6:30. At 7:30 I fed the kids. At 8:30 I ate alone. It was midnight before I heard Bob's key in the lock. He said he got involved in a game of billiards at the club, and I happen to know he was telling the truth.

I work in an office although we don't need the money. I'm stuck at home almost every night with the kids and if I had to stay home all day too I'd go out of my mind.

My husband is a well-known professional man. He holds offices in several organizations and says he has a full life. His life might be full, but mine is empty. The kids don't have a father and I don't have a husband. Even the maid would be happier if he left. She'd have less laundry. What is your advice?—FED UP TO HEIRE

Dear Fed: If your husband died of a heart attack tomorrow you'd cry your head off and berate yourself for not having made home a place where he wanted to spend more time.

Marriage is not a 50-50 proposition. It's more like 80-20 with the wife doing 80 per cent of the giving, and yes, 80 per cent of the forgiving. She sets the emotional thermostat that warms the house or chills it.

I know of very few husbands who have held a marriage together, but I've known many wives who have done so — in spite of absent, thoughtless husbands. These women are the real champions in my book.

Dear Ann Landers: Please answer a simple question, and don't call any psychiatrists. Is it all right for a 15-year-old boy to do his homework in the living room, wearing only underclothes with his mother present? Thank you. — ONLY AN OBSERVER

Dear Only: I don't have to call anybody to answer this one. A 15-year-old boy should put on a robe or a shirt and trousers when he does his homework in the living room with his mother present.

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a letter from a storekeeper who complained about customers banging on the doors before and after store hours demanding that they be let in. I have another complaint.

I'm a checker in a supermarket. Five minutes before closing time Mrs. Straggler comes in. She is not a regular customer. Nobody has ever seen her before. She pokes around, reading all the labels — can't decide whether to take the corn flakes or the raisin bran. Just when the butcher has finished cleaning the meat grinder, she decides she wants a pound of ground beef. Then she says the lettuce looks wilted and she'd like a head from the cooler. Her favorite soft drink cases are empty so she asks the boy to run downstairs and get two bottles of quench-a-cola.

Mrs. Straggler has kept the cashier 20 minutes overtime. And then she pays her $4.20 bill in pennies. "I save these things," she says. "You'd be surprised how they mount up."

Please print this letter, Ann, and I'll bet it will be pasted up on thousands of cash-registers all over the country. — BEN THURU

Dear Ben: Here's your letter, but don't expect it to perform miracles. The clouds never think you mean them.

Cruelty to Children Cases Result In Call For Action At Melbourne

MELBOURNE (CP) — Cruelty to children has shocked the people of Victoria State and compelled the state government to take action.

The disclosures, in two reports in the Medical Journal of Australia, erased the belief that Australian children are the best cared for in the world.

In one report, the Victorian State police surgeon, Dr. John G. Birrell, and his brother Robert, a senior doctor at Melbourne's St. Vincent's Hospital, said that "of maltreated children occur with 'alarming frequency'."

In another report, Dr. Dora Daily said a survey of battered to a welfare center compelled her to de-

Dr. John Birrell said: "People can't comprehend the cruelty parents can inflict on children. Doctors often have suspicions about injuries to children but they can't do anything about it. As the law now stands, if a doctor reported parents to the police and a court found them guilty, the parents could then sue the doctor for defamation."

Dr. Hilestock said some of the babies he saw were "like victims of a concentration camp." Why do parents behave so cruelly? In the cases investigated by the Birrell brothers, they found disturbed family backgrounds, alcoholism, sexual promiscuity, financial difficulties and mental illness.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass Pass
2 NT Pass 3 NT

Opening lead — seven of hearts.
Here is a remarkable hand played by Stella Rebner, West Coast expert. It occurred in the masters pair championship in San Francisco in 1961.
The two notrump bid by Mrs. Rebner was rather bold, considering that she had already opened the bidding with a minor hand and her partner had passed the two heart overall. But undaunted, Mrs. Rebner bid two notrump, which North (Alicia Kempner) raised to three.
West led a heart, East played the ten, and Mrs. Rebner permitted the ten to win the trick! As a result of this extraordinary play, Mrs. Rebner made the contract. East could do no better than return a diamond. Declarer ducked, and West won with the ace. West could now make no damaging return and Mrs. Rebner easily made nine tricks after forcing out the A-K of clubs.

Now let's suppose that Mrs. Rebner had won the ten of hearts with the queen, which would seem to be the natural thing to do. In that case she would very likely have gone down three after attempting to establish dummy's clubs. She would probably have lost the A-K of clubs, the ace of diamonds and four heart tricks.
Mrs. Rebner reasoned that West was bound to have two entries outside of hearts to justify the two heart bid. She could also be sure that West had a six-card suit for the jump bid. This, in turn, meant that East's ten of hearts was a singleton.
It followed that if West had only two side entries, his heart suit could be immobilized by ducking the opening lead. Of course, Mrs. Rebner was lucky to find East with the queen of diamonds as well as one of the three missing key cards, but she had exactly the kind of luck that is often rewarded when accompanied by a modicum of skill.
In this deal, Mrs. Rebner made the most of both.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
While A.M. aspects will be on the mid side, that will be a good period in which to make plans for afternoon activities. More vigorous influences, which will prevail after noon, will encourage accomplishment in important interests, stimulate unusual but feasible ideas.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you should attack major objects vigorously now — especially those connected with your job. Do not look for immediate recognition, however, since stars promise not much more than routine accomplishment for the next 12 months. However, extra efforts expanded now could bring some nice occupational breaks in late April and early May; also in late December and next January. In any event, it would be well to remember that no serious endeavor is ever lost, so a progressive program, conscientiously followed, will eventually net good returns.

Where financial matters are concerned, you will have a fine year ahead, with earnings steadily stepped up in mid-March, early May, good monetary breaks throughout July, in mid-September, mid-October and next January. Make no loans in late May, however, don't speculate in June, and do avoid extravagance between mid-November and mid-December.

Personal matters will prove stimulating during the next 12 months, with emphasis on romance throughout the year — notably in late June, all of July and late September on travel during the first three weeks of July. Creative workers should have an excellent year, with unusual accomplishments indicated in June.
A child born on this day will be endowed with the talents needed to make an excellent writer, physician or actor.

Punch Holes In This One

VICTORIA (CP)—A resourceful Campbell River motorist has struck back at the "modern era's marvel" — the computer. For some time the provincial government has been using an IBM machine to check drivers' records and send warning letters to anyone whose record is slipping.

The one way flow of mail ended when the motor vehicles branch received a bulky envelope containing 25 computer punch cards. When fed into the government's data processor the message read in part:

Dear 1401:
Thank you for your letter of Nov. 3, 1968. I notice that you lack the ability to determine the gender of the offender. I appreciate the fact you keep track of my driving record. But I know you lack the ability to operate a motor vehicle and thus have no grounds for judging humans. You would probably pop your cores if you had to operate a motor vehicle on today's competitive highways. The method by which you select drivers for wrist slapping is not really just.

It must be obvious that entries on one's driving record do not reflect one's ability or car, but merely reflects a delicate mixture of probability and luck. I guess I was born unlucky.

Yours electronically,
An irate motorist.
Officials will reply, in punch cards, naturally.

Seaway Estimate Left In Wake

CORNWALL (CP) — For the first time, tonnage carried on the St. Lawrence Seaway in the last season exceeded the annual tonnage estimate for the system. Administrator Joseph McCann of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. announced in Massena, N.Y., Thursday that preliminary figures indicate the year's haul will be around 49,200,000 tons. Original estimates predicted 48,000,000 tons for 1968.

Flight Route Plan Changed By Soviet

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet airlines have given up a route over the Sinkiang and Tibet regions of China, apparently because the Chinese refused flight rights. The route of the Soviet government airline Aeroflot, between Moscow and New Delhi had taken its planes over a part of western China closed to most foreigners. The Moscow - New Delhi route now is over Afghanistan and West Pakistan.

TRY AND STOP ME By Bennett Cerf

JULE STYNE, composer of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "Gypsy," "The Bells Are Ringing" and a dozen other smash hit musicals, led a band in his younger days that once played a week's engagement for no less a music lover than Al Capone.

Capone even led the band one night in a rendition of Gerchwin's "Rhapsody in Blue"—after making sure that none of the musicians was packing a gat. Styne was riding from Los Angeles to Chicago aboard Santa Fe's crack train, The Chief, one time, with several other luminaries of the night club world. They decided to do their tipping to the train crew as a unit, and raised the tidy total of five hundred dollars for the purpose. All of it was entrusted to a young agent attached to the party—and that's where they made their mistake. He handed $25 to a window washer at a way-station in Arizona, $50 to the dining room steward, $50 to the train barber—and when they reached Albuquerque, handed all that was left to the engineer. "I liked the way he was running the train," was his explanation—before they clobbered him.

DEFINITIONS:
AGENTS ASSISTANT (according to Hollywood's Fern Goodman): 1. A mouse studying to be a rat. 2. The only who will associate with an agent.
INTUITION: That which tells a wife her husband has done something before he thinks of doing it.
LAMB STEW: Much ado about mutton.
LAW SUIT: A policeman's uniform.
OPTIMIST: A bridegroom planning how he will spend his honeymoon.
POPULATION EXPLOSION: When people take leave of their senses.

Philatelists Tell Story That Amazes

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Officials of the American Philatelic Society have made public an almost unbelievable story of how they licked a stamp forgery operation, which they described as the largest "ever to flourish in the Western Hemisphere."

The society, an organization representing more than 200,000 American stamp collectors, said Thursday it cancelled the international operations of a 76-year-old, self-confessed Mexican forger by buying his original drawings, engraving plates, correspondence and sales records.

Edward Willard of State College, Pa., society president, identified the Mexican as Raul Charles de Thuin of Merida, Yucatan.

The society, Willard said, had named a five-man committee, known as the Secret Five, to negotiate the sale with de Thuin.

Willard said de Thuin accepted an undisclosed amount of cash to sell out his entire holdings. He also signed a statement admitting he engaged in counterfeiting philatelic material, then inked an agreement to bind himself to quit the "business" forever.

A Dour, Dull Red Is Liu And He Faces Criticism

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A dour Communist theoretician is the No. 1 target of the apparently-dominant faction in China in an intense struggle for power.

"He is such a dull dog to have such influence," a Western diplomat once said of the president of Communist China's government, fragile, silver-haired Liu Shao-chi.

Before the power struggle began in earnest last August, Liu Shao-chi was widely regarded as the heir apparent to the aging chairman of the Communist party and father of China's revolution, Mao Tse-tung.

ACCUSED BY GUARDS Liu is accused by the Mao-Lin faction, and by the teen-age Red Guards who have spearheaded their attack, of having "taken the capitalist road" and of leaning toward "modern revisionism." That's their term for the Soviet brand of Communism.

Should Liu lose the struggle, it would be an ironic end for a long career as Mao Tse-tung's chief comrade-in-arms and adviser throughout the Chinese Communist revolution. His career, his family and perhaps even his life are imperiled.

"A party member is required to sacrifice his personal interests unconditionally," Liu has said.

In the West, Liu would be known as an organization man. On the surface he appears cold, emotionless.

Dedicated to dogma, his career reached a high point when his 1923 treatise, How To Become a Good Communist, was published in the Chinese Communist party bible, Red Flag, five years ago. Then he and the round Mao were close party colleagues.

SON OF TEACHER Liu was born in 1898, the son of a well-to-do schoolteacher in the Ninghsiang area of Hunan province.

He went to Shanghai in his early years, where he became a trade unionist and student of Marxism.

"I knew only that socialism was good," Liu said later.

He joined the Communist party in 1922 and was sent to Moscow in 1923 with a revolutionary group called Toilers of the East.

But he was not happy there, saying Russians never understood the Chinese. Despite his coldness to Moscow, the view that he favored the Soviets persisted for many years.

He returned to China in 1925 and joined Chou En-lai, a Communist labor organizer.

Although he had met Mao in 1921, it was not until they both began organizing — Mao the peasants, Liu the urban workers — that they became close.

He helped Mao to power and joined him on the Long March in 1934-35 to elude the troops of Chiang Kai-shek.

In 1942, Mao made Liu the head of the party's first massive "rectification" campaign.

Next year, Liu became general secretary of the Communist party and the most faithful of Mao's disciples.

"There's no other approach but total, total war," says Dr. Bundoock who feels that industrial society is building gigantic health hazards.

Expo May Confer Benefit Also On All Canadian Port Cities

OTTAWA (CP) — Expo 67 may confer a hidden benefit on every major port city in Canada — a tested program to eradicate air and water pollution and other serious health hazards such as rats.

The costly program to prepare the Montreal harbor area for the world's fair, which opens April 28, already shows signs of spreading environmental health benefits to surrounding municipalities.

Representatives of the entire region surrounding Montreal are to meet with provincial and federal health officials next week to discuss applying some of the lessons learned in Montreal harbor to their communities, a federal official said Thursday.

And interest in applying the Montreal harbor environmental health program elsewhere is being shown by other Canadian port cities and the national harbors board.

WORKED FOR MONTHS Federal, provincial, municipal and port authorities have been working for months on a step-by-step plan to clean up Montreal harbor.

One noticeable benefit—fewer harbor rats, the essential hosts of flea-borne bubonic and pneumonic plague.

Defence was rat-killing month on the miles of docks and warehouses opposite the island site of Expo 67. An estimated 300,000 visitors will pass through the dock area daily en route to the fair.

Every inch of wharf and storage space was surveyed and by February will have been visited by rubbish collectors and rat exterminators. The latter keep records of kills which have been in the order of 150 rats a nest. There are thousands of rat nests.

Godless Theory Breeding Sex

TORONTO (CP) — A Boston clergyman said Thursday night the "God is dead" philosophy is spawning pornography in women's magazines.

Rev. Harold Ockenga told a Youth for Christ convention evangelists will have to "think big" to cope with the new philosophy.

Mr. Ockenga, an aide to evangelist Billy Graham, said even high-fashion magazines have become more pornographic than some of the nude-filled men's magazines.

He said a recent issue of Vogue magazine had pictures of a nude woman and a whole cast of Paris showgirls clad in G-strings.

Mr. Ockenga said the philosophy takes mysticism out of religion and states that man is no longer accountable to God but only to conscience.

This new morality was having a practical application in increased crime, fornication, drug addiction, adultery and divorce.

"If you declare there is no God then there are no absolutes, eternal laws and everything is relative," he said. "If you do not love God then you do not love your neighbor. You can guess then what's going to happen."

Economic Indicator Lists Given Close Scrutiny Now

By KEN SMITH Canadian Press Business Editor

Economic indicators — those long lists of figures that can show which way a country's business is going — are getting a thorough scrutiny these days.

With Finance Minister Sharp describing the Canadian economy as being in delicate balance, people are crystal-balling the future with an enthusiasm not seen in Canada for years.

Although economists may not always — or even often — agree on how to interpret the indicators, there is general agreement on some of the ones that are most important.

Here are some to watch if you want to try to be the first on your street to predict whether the economy will resume its long upward climb or slip into recession.

Corporate profits are a key indicator, since they determine the rate and timing of capital investment and help set a mood of optimism or pessimism in executive suites about business expectations.

PROFITS MEAN EXPANSION If profits are rising, expansion should follow as more funds are put into new plants and equipment. They open the door to higher wages, putting more money into consumers' hands.

In a period of decline, however, business leaders tend to postpone expansionist ventures. If enough decide at the same time to put off additional investment, trouble could be in the books.

Capital investment makes up an important segment of the gross national product and so has far-reaching effects on the economy generally. Some decline became apparent in late 1966.

Now the question is whether the easing in the rate of new investment was enough just to relax some of the pressures on supply, or whether the slowdown will continue.

The government's investment forecast to be issued shortly will be a tipoff.

SIGNAL FOR RECESSION Unemployment, traditionally rises as a recession gets underway. Many experts have forecast unemployment will rise by about one per cent in 1967 to around 4 per cent, but most intend to see this resulting in an easing of the tight labor situation rather than the onset of trouble.

If it rises sharply, however, difficulties would be around the corner.

Stock market fluctuations have long been regarded a leading indicator, although some economists now are suggesting the business scene is too complex to be reflected accurately through the market.

The customary argument is that stock markets indicate the degree of confidence, people have in the near future.

Steel and auto industries exert a strong influence on the economy and any major slowdown would show quickly in almost all segments of the country.

COLOR TV DISTORTION The rate at which people buy new cars is looked on as a key guide to whether they are in a spending mood, although diverting money into such items as color television sets could distort figures over a short term while use of steel accurately gauges the over-all pace of industry.

Cement's important role in construction makes it worthy of note, too.

Manufacturers' inventories have always been watched closely, with a decline normally reflecting a sales drop. Growing use of computers to control inventories, however, could mean this is not as reliable a guide as it used to be since fluctuations could mean nothing more than normal adjustments to short-term changes.

The international situation exerts the predominant influence over the medium and long term. The Canadian economy has shown in recent years it can swing from the path of the United States, but the swings are fairly minor.

So developments in the U.S. and, to a lesser extent, Britain and other countries will set the general tone for the Canadian economy.

PEWS SET ON GRASS SHEPSTEAD, England (CP) — Watching cricket from church pews may take sports addiction too close to worship for some fans, but that's what a club in Leicestershire is a r r a n g i n g. The cheapest benches it could buy came from a church being refurbished.
